

The Catholic Philopatrian Literary Institute

The Catholic Philopatrian Literary Institute (The Philo) was founded in 1850 and is amongst the oldest Catholic lay organizations in the U.S. We are based in Philadelphia with our clubhouse adjacent to Rittenhouse Square. The Philo was founded to assist Catholic immigrant children to be educated, who, at the time, were not being admitted to the Philadelphia's public schools. The organization evolved into an employment network for the adults (mostly Irish at the time), and eventually a social and philanthropic society for Philadelphia's Catholic community.

Today, The Philos continue to support Catholic education through the generosity of our Scholarship Foundation and our general fund raising efforts. Our Foundation annually awards scholarships to worthy students at Saint Charles Seminary and eleven catholic colleges and universities in the Philadelphia region. Additionally, our fund raising efforts support the financially challenged Catholic elementary schools and academies. Our membership is active with our many social events, lectures, family events and leadership opportunities within the Catholic community. Please explore our website at www.thephilo.org.
